PREDICTED SOCIAL CREDIT FAILURE

Joseph T. Shaw, K.C., prominent Calgary lawyer and one-time leader of the Liberal party in Alberta, predicted Social Credit failure immediately after the Aberhart government was elected in 1935. His predictions are coming true. His radio addresses during the past year have been timely and interesting. When Joe Shaw talks over the air, all dials are tuned in. He is one of the most progressive politicians of the day—and a man greatly feared by all Social Crediters.—E.S.

SALVATION ARMY NOTES

Lieutenant R. Weddell, of Macleod, who was formerly engaged in the Salvation Army work in The Pass towns, has again come to assist with the War Fund Campaign for a period of two or three weeks.

Tonight, being Good Friday, the Lieutenant will show moving pictures in the Army hall at Coleman on "The Life of Christ" at 7.30 o'clock.

Lieutenant Weddell will be in charge of Easter Sunday's services in Coleman. At 11 a.m., a holiness meeting will be held, and the night meeting, at 7.30, will be centred around the theme "Risen With Christ." The hall will be suitably decorated for the occasion, and seasonal messages will be given.

These meetings are open to the public, and all are urged to attend.

Enroute to join her husband, Capt. F. H. Bonnell, now serving with the Army Medical Corps, Mrs. Bonnell recently left Vancouver by Trans-Canada Air Lines for the Atlantic seaboard. She was the first through passenger from Vancouver to Moncton on the fast schedules inaugurated last week, and arrived in the Maritime centre approximately 18 hours after leaving Vancouver, a distance of 2,839 miles.

DEATH OF DOMINIC SARTORIS

The death of Dominic Sartoris, brother of Mark Sartoris, occurred in a Lethbridge rooming house on Monday evening under mysterious circumstances. The man was found rolling around the floor of his room in great pain, and died before either police or a physician arrived. An autopsy, conducted by Dr. J. S. Wray, coroner, disclosed that death resulted from coronary thrombosis following pneumonia. No inquest was held.

Dominic left Blairmore about eight days previous for Italy, to travel via Montreal and New York. A ticket, Montreal to Blairmore, was found in his pocket. It is presumed that owing to his health, he decided to return from Montreal. He was about sixty-five years of age, and had been resident of East Blairmore for upwards of thirty years. His brother, Mark Sartoris, proceeded to Lethbridge on Tuesday to take charge of the body.

The remains were brought to Blairmore on Tuesday night. Funeral arrangements are in charge of A. E. Ferguson, of the Crown's Nest Funeral Home. Funeral will take place on Monday morning. He is survived by his wife, in Italy, and one daughter, residing in Ontario. The daughter will arrive by tonight's train.

CHAPEL—STANDERFER

The home of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Armitage, Calgary, was the scene of a quiet but pretty wedding at 3 p.m. on Saturday, March 16th, when Ina Diane, daughter of Mrs. A. Standefor, of Wetaskiwin, became the bride of Sapper William Albert Chappell, of the Royal Canadian Engineers, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Chappell, of Blairmore. The rooms were beautifully decorated with Spring flowers, pink and white streamers, and white wedding bells.

The bride, who was given in marriage by Mr. J. R. Armitage, entered the room to the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin. She was charming in an afternoon dress of Monterey rose crepe, embellished in pastel shades. Her small black straw hat was trimmed with ruffled Monterey rose crepe and a veil, and gloves in the same shade completed the ensemble, with which she wore a corsage of sweetheart roses and white hyacinths.

Mrs. R. R. Large, of Cranbrook, sister of the groom, as matron of honor, was becomingly gowned in burgundy wine with veiled black straw hat trimmed with a large burgundy wine bow. Her corsage was of token roses and purple violets.

Sapper E. G. Montalbetti, of the Royal Canadian Engineers, attended the groom; Captain A. E. Larke, chaplain of Military District 13, officiated, and Mrs. John S. Kerr, also a sister of the groom, played the wedding music.

Following the ceremony, a buffet luncheon was served, after which the happy couple left on a short honeymoon to be spent at Blairmore and Cranbrook.

Invited guests included Mrs. A. Standefor, Mr. Harold Standefor and Miss Joyce Bate, of Wetaskiwin; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Chappell and Mr. and Mrs. John S. Kerr, of Blairmore; Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Large, of Cranbrook; Sgt.-Maj. James Allan, of the Calgary Highlanders, and Mrs. Allan; Sgt. G. Deney, of the Royal Canadian Engineers, and Mrs. Deney; Mr. and Mrs. A. Bissett, Mrs. Alice Dickson, Mrs. Mildred Hammon, Miss Helen Bissett, Mr. Donald Dickson, Ite Stanley Bissett, and Sappers E. G. Montalbetti, H. Lord and G. Lord, all of Calgary.

Senator W. A. Buchanan, of Lethbridge, and Arthur M. Denamore, of Lundbreck, addressed a largely attended meeting in the interest of Liberal Candidate, F. O. McKenna at Staveland on Monday afternoon.

F. O. McKenna

Liberal candidate, who seeks your support in the federal election on Tuesday next. Mr. McKenna does not need any further introduction. He is well qualified to represent the Macleod riding in Ottawa.

WILLIAMS VIGOROUSLY REPLIES TO HILLCREST SOCIAL CREDITERS

Hillcrest, March 20.—Striking back at opponents who charged that he was not a true Labor candidate, Enoch Williams appealed for the support of local voters at a meeting held in the Union hall on Monday night.

Referring to statements in the press that Labor was insulting Social Credit by running in this constituency, Mr. Williams said that members of that group had no grounds for complaint. If, as they inferred, the ranks of the workers were being split up by this move, why didn't some of them say so when it was decided to have a Labor representative same time ago. They could easily have attended the meeting in Bellevue, hence, their arguments had no foundation. Mr. Williams was supported on the platform by Robert Livett, president of District 15 of the U. M. W. of A., and Tom Uphill, B.C. member for Fernie.

BELLEVUE HAPPENINGS

Mr. and Mrs. James Cousens, Mr. J. L. Cousens and Mrs. H. Milnes returned Saturday from Calgary, where they attended the Rebekah and Odd-fellow sessions.

Mrs. W. Harris, with her son, of Princeton, B.C., is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Curry, senior.

Miss Patricia Key entertained a number of little friends at her home last Wednesday, in honor of her fourth birthday.

Mrs. Beal, senior, who has been confined to her bed through illness, is able to be up and around the house again.

Mrs. A. Turner returned Saturday night from Calgary, where she attended the Alberta-Rebekah Assembly sessions.

The United church choir, under the leadership of Mrs. R. Upton, presented the cantata, "From Olivet to Calvary," on Sunday evening to quite a large audience.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Mattson were Calgary visitors on Saturday last, and attended the Calgary-Turner Valley hockey game.

George Charlesworth, who has been a patient in the Belcher hospital for several weeks, has returned home.

Jack Milnes and N. Milvain, who enlisted in the Calgary Highlanders, were home on leave last week.

THE END OF THE SEASON

Fred Gavelin, local skater, climbed to the top of the ski way this forenoon and had to climb back, for want of snow.

During the first four weeks of 1940, Canada's ten sugar refineries produced 54,729,387 pounds of refined sugar.

DEATH OF MRS. D. KYLE

Death claimed a much beloved and respected citizen of Hillcrest on Friday evening, in the person of Mrs. Dan Kyle, who passed away in the Blairmore hospital following a very critical operation.

Mrs. Kyle leaves to mourn her passing her husband, four daughters, Mary, Katherine, Janet and Mrs. Louis Thomas, and three sons, James and Alex., of Hillcrest, and William, of Coleman.

Funeral services were held at the family residence and Hillcrest United church on Monday afternoon, attended by a large concourse of sympathizing friends and relatives. Rev. Richard Upton, of Bellevue, officiated. Members of the Mispah Temple of Pythian Sisters held their service at the residence. Interment took place in the Hillcrest cemetery.

"HOBGOBLIN HOUSE" IS WELL STAGED

The annual St. Patrick's entertainment, staged in the Columbus hall on Friday and Monday nights by local talent was well received and drew large houses each night.

The three-act play, entitled "Hobgoblin House," was particularly well performed by the following artists: Jack Tompkins as Darius Krupp, old caretaker of Hobgoblin House; James Murphy as Henry Goobor, the dark gardener; Violet Galeotti as Susan Parkins, the English 'housekeeper'; Mary Marcial as Delilah Words, the dark cook; Anne Kubic as Miss Priscilla Parker, the present owner; Rices Funagalli as Marian Carter, Priscilla's niece; Jeanne Ponti as Jill Carter, Marian's younger sister; John Dobek as Jack Loring, Jill's fiancé; Angelo Pozzi as Frank Harlow, Marian's fiancé; Lawrence Schaefer as Bluebeard Bronson, an escaped convict; John Huchala as Bill Wilkins, Bronson's keeper, and ? ? ? as the headless phantom.

Most pleasing features were the Sunbeam Drill and Kerry Dance by young girls, and piano accordion solos by Emil Micherda.

The West Canadian Colliers band of thirty pieces attended the opening exercises and rendered pleasing and enlivening selections during intermissions.

BROTHER OF LUNDBRECK

CITIZEN DIES IN ONTARIO

Senator George Lynch-Staunton, 81, noted legal counsel, died at Hamilton, Ontario, on Tuesday. He had practiced law in Hamilton for more than half a century, and was called to the senate on January 22nd, 1917. Born at Southampton, Ontario, son of Francis Lynch-Staunton, K.C., and Victoria (Consett) Lynch-Staunton, he was educated at St. Mary's College, Montreal, and Upper Canada College, Toronto. He visited Southern Alberta a number of times. Four brothers came to this country from Ontario in the early days, and of them only one is now living, Richard Lynch-Staunton, on the well known ranch on Todd Creek, nine miles north of Lundbreck.

Orders for 2,000 or more Alberta horses for the use of the French army are expected by Calgary horsemen.

The Peace To Come

Since the outbreak of the current war, governmental authorities and other leaders have been advising the farmers to carry on their vocation with an eye to the future, to so order their wartime operation as to make the pending transition from wartime to peace conditions as painless as possible, which, being interpreted means, with as little loss to the individual tiller of the soil and to agriculture in general as may be practicable.

Regarded as a broad precept the advice is undoubtedly sound, and if the answer were given to the question "how?" effective application might be made to the general principle. Unfortunately, however, there are some unknown factors which would have to be determined before very much could be done by the individual farmer to foresee and meet in advance the conditions which may or may not follow the termination of hostilities.

If, for instance, the farmer is to be able to conduct such methods of farming during the war as to enable him to switch from war to peace-time operations with ease and without serious loss, he must know in advance how long the war is to last, and what the peace settlement terms will be after the guns are silenced; two imponderables for which there can be no answer at the present time. One can only speculate on the answers to these two very vital queries, and on the answers to both of them there are much wide divergencies of opinion and theory as to make forecasts nothing but guesswork.

As for the duration of the war the general consensus of opinion at the moment is that it is likely to be a lengthy one, considerably longer than the great war of 1914-18 and while indications just now point to the possibility of the zone of conflict being widely extended, thus tending to further protract the war, conditions might arise at any time which would result in exhaustion of one of the belligerents and bring about a speedy and unexpected end to the fighting.

In The Dark

It can readily be understood, too, that before the farmer can organize in advance his agricultural operations to meet subsequent peace-time conditions, he must know in advance what commodities are going to be in demand for the export markets and which of these he will be, or should be, in a position to supply on an economic basis. The answer to this question presupposes advance knowledge, not only of the terms of peace that will ultimately be made, but also of the ability of the consuming countries to pay for their requirements at that time and for some years after.

If, for instance, when peace agreements are signed, they should provide for an all round abolition of tariffs, thus re-opening for Canadian wheat a number of the markets which have been lost in recent years, there will still remain the question whether or not the financial and economic resources of some of these countries will not have been exhausted to such a point that they will have nothing to offer in return, either on cash or credit basis.

So that the farmer is very much in the dark when he begins to ponder the problem of farming in wartime in such a manner that he will have no major problem to solve after peace has been signed and tanks and bombers put into cold storage or converted to other uses. This, however, offers a very good reason why popular opinion in the democratic countries as to the objectives to be achieved when the war ends should be crystallized while the conflict still is raging. Since there are so many and varied solutions already being offered, it is not too early to begin to think of what should be done to ensure world security when the time is ripe.

A Measure Of Safety

Even, however, if the farmer may feel himself rather helpless when facing the unknown future, there are some principles which he might well adopt during the war to minimize the shock to agriculture which peace might bring in its train for some years and which might serve to ensure some measure of security, without minimizing his duty to produce foodstuffs for the Allied belligerents.

Agricultural and economic authorities who have given some thought to this question are of the opinion that over-expansion, either in land or equipment by the average farmer would be a mistake which might be difficult if not impossible to rectify at a later date.

They are also of the opinion that side by side with the production of cereal grains and hogs, operations might well be extended to all those commodities which are needed to make the farm as nearly as possible a self-sustaining unit, and while, no doubt, large scale farmers who are accustomed to operating their land on a completely mechanized basis will continue to do so, the family man should not put his entire reliance on export foodstuffs, but should lay the basis for whatever the future may have to offer by diversification.

The drought has already served to accentuate the move towards self-subsistence on the land. The war should not be allowed to cause a retrogression in this desirable achievement. The gains which have been made in the past few years should at least be retained and where it can be done without interfering with the immediate war needs, they might well be extended.

Western Mining

Manitoba Takes Its Place As Important Producing Province

Only a few years ago the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy would not have thought of holding its annual meeting in Manitoba. To-day, when the mineral production of this province is rising towards 30 millions a year, Manitoba takes its natural place as one of the important producing provinces of the Dominion.

Here at this moment are some 400 delegates, the cream of the Canadian mining world; mine owners, mine managers, engineers, metallurgists, geologists, supply men and so on. For a few days they will discuss their mutual problems and debate endlessly the questions that naturally arise when miners take mining. They are the explorers, the pioneers, the builders and the executives of an important and steadily growing industry upon which no limits of ultimate expansion have been set. All that can safely be said is generations must still pass before its potentialities can be even fully assessed.

The labors of mining men are arduous, their rewards by no means excessive, they deserve, and they must receive, the fullest honor during their visit here—Winnipeg Free Press.

A Prized Souvenir

Halifax Ma's Has Gestapo's Arm Band Found On Prison Ship

Hugh S. Finlay, of Halifax, has something to show for his part in the war. It is an official insignia of the Gestapo, dreaded German secret police, a brilliant four-inch armband on which a Nazi swastika is worked in silk on a field of white.

The souvenir came from a captured German ship on which the Halifax man was a member of the "spy" crew. The seaman made his discovery in a bed of dust, hidden away under papers in a chest of drawers, after he had boarded the German vessel at a southern port. He added proof to reports that Gestapo members serve aboard each Nazi ship, unknown to other seamen.

The vessel, he said, was fitted with every modern equipment, including a swimming pool, and in every cabin was an amplifier connected to a central "propaganda" radio to which only the captain had access.

How Anzac Originated

The word Anzac is appearing in the despatches again. This expressive name for troops from the dominions "down under" was coined early in the last war from the initials of the title "Australia-New Zealand Army Corps." To-day, it means troops of either Dominion, as well as those, and is used in preference to "Aussies" or New Zealanders.

SELECTED RECIPES

RICE KRISPIES MACAROONS

2 egg whites
1 cup sugar
2 cups Kellogg's Rice Krispies
1/2 cup nutmeats
1/2 cup coconut
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

Beat egg whites until they are stiff enough to hold their shape but not until they lose their shiny appearance. Fold in Rice Krispies, nutmeats and coconut. Add vanilla. Drop on a well greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about 15 to 20 minutes. Remove pans from oven, place on damp towel and remove macaroons immediately with a spatula or sharp knife. If macaroons become hardened to pan, they may be put in the oven for a few minutes to soften.

Note: A standard measuring tablespoon which has a round bowl may be used for shaping the macaroons. This insures a regular shape and better appearance. Either brown or white sugar may be used. Yield: 1 1/2 dozen.

MUSHROOM BISQUE

2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons minced onion
1/2 cup minced celery
1 1/2 cups mushrooms cut fine
3 cups chicken stock or water
Salt and pepper
8 Christie's Soda Wafers, crumbled.
2 cups evaporated milk or rich milk

Melt butter, add minced vegetables and cook for five minutes. Add stock and seasoning and boil until celery is tender. Add crumbled crackers and milk and serve very hot. Six portions.

Gallantry Medal

Real Deeds Of Heroism Are Fittingly Rewarded

Very few people have ever heard of the Empire Gallantry medal, but it ranks right next to the Victoria Cross. Although the medal is not a new one, the fact of its importance only came to light a short time ago.

The full title of the medal is the Medal of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire. It is, however, more commonly called the Empire Gallantry Medal and the wearer can put E.G.M. after his name. It is almost as hard to win as the V.C., and may be won by a civilian. So far it has never been bestowed outside the service. It is thought, however, that it could be awarded for heroism during an air raid by some of the air raid precautions staff or a civil population.

Commander R. N. Jolly, of the destroyer Mohawk, who brought his boat to port although mortally wounded, was awarded this honor, but the fact did not become clear at the time, as it was thought that he had received an O.B.E. Only a few men have won this medal so far, and it is almost unknown even by members of the services.

Fishermen and merchant marine sailors will only be awarded the civilian decorations of this order as it is felt that it is wise to keep them separate from the fighting forces. Several merchant captains have already been honored for gallantry.

An effort has been made to avoid long delay in bestowing medals for conspicuous bravery and in the case of the naval action in the South American waters, several awards were put through orders the next day.

All are investigated carefully, and right now a high performance is required before a medal can be bestowed. The authorities want to get some sort of a level for bravery so that no real deeds of heroism will be overlooked.

Strong Fabrics

Cloth From Bark Of Plants Being Made In Australia

"Ersatz" fabrics made from the bark of plants, has been known for centuries but has been too costly to produce, according to officials of a Sydney, Australia, company who have set up factories to produce "raulp".

Raupe is made from the bark of a plant technically known as Boerhaavia Nives, and is claimed to be eight times stronger than cotton, seven times stronger than silk and three times stronger than the finest flax.

The company hopes to manufacture large quantities of the material and to be able to sell it at a price comparable with cotton.

Ersatz fabric is being experimented with in Germany.

Soap And Sausages

Sent By Germans In Japan To Friends At Home

A letter from a friend in Japan to a London writer says: "There is a shortage of some commodities, but soap isn't usually one of them. So he was surprised to find towards the end of November and in early December that one or two of the popular brands were running short in the chief towns. The remark has now come to light. German residents had bought up most of the available supplies to send as Christmas presents to their friends at home. One German sent over a hundred parcels—each containing three precious cakes of soap. Tinned sausage was another commodity that found its way into the mails in big quantities."

The Old and New Testaments of the Bible each contain the word "truth" exactly 117 times.

FINNS LEAVING CEDED TERRITORY FOR NEW HOMES

Helsinki.—A new army was on the march in saddened Finland—an army of 100,000 men, women and children forsaking their hearthstones in ceded territory to find strange homes within Finland's newly-shrunk frontiers.

By foot, in autos, wagons and on trains they moved through the snow-clad country taking their pigs, horses and cattle with them. They carried what clothing and family heirlooms they could gather on short notice before their land is turned over to Russia.

From its shell-scarred positions on the isthmus and north of Ladoga the isthmus will be sold along the coast at a rate of about four miles a day, and completing the cession by April 10. Each sector has a deadline for being yielded.

The need for every transport vehicle is so acute that the government declines to let newspapers visit the area for the present.

The state has been paying the entire cost of feeding and sheltering refugees and now will stand the cost of moving them to permanent homes.

The Finnish government feels that the refugees have a right to expect new property and new homes to make up for what is lost to Russia.

Some of the farming population from the isthmus and north of Lake Ladoga will be moved to western Finland near Vaasa. Fishermen of the isthmus will be sent along the Gulf of Bothnia, in southwest Finland, where they can follow their accustomed ways.

Approximately 500,000 other persons are in refugee centres, having fled there for protection early in the war.

About 140,000 of them may return to their homes—what Russian bombs have left of them—but Finland must find new homes and new livelihoods for some in the rock-bound land for about 400,000.

Juho Kivisto, assistant minister of agriculture, who is in charge of moving the people, said no pressure had been brought to force families to leave the ceded areas, but that experience showed practically none of them wanted to live under Russian rule.

Foreign Minister Valmo A. Tanner said that the Finnish parliament might ratify the Russo-Finnish peace treaty "within a few days." He added that he expected considerable discussion in parliament before a final vote was taken.

Need More Moisture

Snowfall On Prairies Has Been Below Normal

Ottawa.—Snowfalls on the Canadian prairies and in the Rocky mountains this season have been below normal. Dr. E. S. Archibald, director of experimental farm service, said commenting a few days ago from Washington of lack of soil moisture in mid-western states.

"Much can happen between now and April but a heavy snow storm or heavy spring rains would help greatly the wheat farmers on the prairies," said Dr. Archibald. "Rain-fall was light over the prairies last fall and the snowfall this winter also has been light although some parts of the west recently got considerable snow. Our records cover up to a week ago.

The situation is not critical, but moisture on the prairies is below normal. Some sections are better provided for than others. Lack of snow in the mountains is giving some anxiety because this snow provides for large irrigation projects in Alberta and British Columbia.

"Generally on the prairies the summerfallow lands have enough moisture to start the spring crops but stubble lands are dry. One advantage is that some lands were so dry they did not freeze and melting snow will run into them instead of running off."

Blames U.S.

Tokyo.—The newspaper Asahi indicated its belief the United States ambassador to Moscow, Laurence Steinhardt, arranged the Russo-Finnish peace because the United States hoped thereby to free the U.S.S.R. for continued pressure on Japan.

Osborne.—A map of Antarctica has been produced by E. P. Rayley, of the Department of the Interior, showing political boundaries, an innovation in South Polar maps.

Not Asking Help

British Newspaper Comments On Visit Of Sumner Welles

London.—On the occasion of his departure from the United Kingdom the Daily Mirror presented to Sumner Welles, President Roosevelt's "fact-finding" envoy, the "fact" that Great Britain does not ask any help from the United States "that may conflict with big business" but only that "America should not make our task more difficult."

Said the Mirror: "In bidding Welles goodbye we present him with the following facts:

"Welles is a very charming and discreet man. We like him.

"We have a tremendous task on hand. We are struggling for our lives. We do not wish to be impeded even by charming people in that task."

"In fulfilling it, amidst inevitable suffering and anxiety, we do not ask help from America—at least not any help that may conflict with big business."

"We ask only that America should not make our task more difficult."

"There are no secrets about British aims in this double-war—a war against German domination and against the added barbarisms which Hitler has incited in his all-too-ready followers."

"The Allied aims are clearly set and these twin dangers are right before the wrongs already done before a halt was called. On these aims Mr. Welles will have found no division of opinion either in Paris or in London."

The Daily Mail reported that the U.S. under-secretary of state had said "friendly and helpful" talks regarding Anglo-American economic relations and the operation of the British contraband control and the searching of U.S. mail.

Financing The War

Great Britain Is Spending Huge Sums Each Day

London.—The British government, estimating its spending at $28,925,000 a day, asked parliament to appropriate a $700,000,000 lump sum for conduct of the war.

Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, said $300,000,000 out of $500,000,000 fund appropriated last September had been spent and predicted another $100,000,000 would be spent by April 1.

Sir John's request for more funds made in the House of Commons, coincided with closing of the public sale of Britain's first loan of the war. Unofficial estimates were that the £1,335,000,000, three per cent, 15 to 19 year issue, was oversubscribed by as much as 50 per cent. An official statement by the Bank of England was expected later.

Sir John divided up Britain's daily war expenses thus:

Army, Navy and Air Force—about $4,000,000.

Air raid precautions, shipping and food—$1,000,000.

Other government expenses—£1,500,000.

He declared the government, attempting to hold down prices, was taking a loss on meat and other supplies over which it has established monopolies.

Neutral Loses Heavy

In Five Months 430,000 Tons Of Shipping Sunk

Paris.—French authorities said that in five months of warfare on the seas neutral countries had lost commercial shipping totalling 430,000 tons, representing seven-tenths of one per cent of the world's shipping.

Norway was declared to be the leading loser with 47 ships lost, a total of 130,000 tons.

From the point of view of national tonnage, the French said Greece had suffered the largest percentage. Greece, they said, had lost 17 ships totalling almost 100,000 tons, or 4.2 per cent of her merchant marine.

Out of 8,285 merchant ships conveyed by British warships, only 18 have been sunk, the semi-official statement said. Out of 2,000 conveyed by the French, only three were reported sunk.

Air Force Personnel

Ottawa.—The war establishment of the Royal Canadian Air Force has been increased by nearly 14,000, the defence minister, Gen. Norman Rogers, announced. The total personnel for which provision has been made is now 30,400, of whom 2,400 are officers and 28,000 airmen.

Prepare For War

London.—Great Britain moved to register children in its cities for the purpose of prompt dispersal in event of spring air raids.

Belgium Protests Again

German Planes Are Reported Still Flying Over Country

Brussels.—Foreign Minister Paul Henri Spaak instructed the Belgian ambassador to Berlin, Vicomte Jacques Davignon, to lodge a strong protest over alleged violation of Belgian territory by German planes. German planes were reported over Belgium three times in one day. A Belgian plane made a forced landing after it was badly damaged by machine gun fire from a German craft over Belgian territory.

A RENEWAL OF PLEDGE BY ALLIES TO WIN THE WAR

London.—Britain's reply to reports of a Finnish-Soviet peace. The Times said, "will be a renewed and strengthened determination to rid Europe of Hitlerism, author of all dangers to which its civilization now stands exposed."

According to The Times, the Anglo-French offer of direct military aid to Finland was originally made "some weeks ago when the Mannerheim line was unbroken and before the Russian proposals had become known through the medium of the Swedish government."

The Daily Mail observed that Great Britain and France "will have more to face criticism for not giving more substantial aid to Finland earlier, but it can now be stated that there has been a British force of many thousands waiting to embark at a late date for Finland for some time."

"Constant contact has also been kept with Field Marshal Mannerheim, who has been aware in these recent days of the extent of the new help Britain was ready to dispatch. The News Chronicle said the Finns have shown "how true it is that the moral factors far outweigh the physical, even on the battlefield."

"Some observers tried to portray Scandinavia as 'the villain of the piece' through refusal to allow Allied reinforcements to cross their territories into Finland. This refusal weakened the Allied promise of aid, it was continued."

"The obdurate refusal of the Scandinavian countries to allow the passage of military aid was decisive," said the London Daily Herald.

The authoritative British Press Association, however, quoted most English papers as agreeing that the offer to aid Finland was made too late.

That the Russian-Finnish armistice would kill any Allied plans of Allied military operations through Scandinavia against Germany's flank or Russia was evident in London.

The British and French press regarded the war in Finland as finished business. The "harsh" and "onerous" terms, said the British Press Association, apparently were forced upon the Finnish delegates.

"Germany exerted all of her influence to end the conflict, it added, "but it remains to be seen whether she now will get from her Soviet ally the support she apparently expects."

Commenting on Bucharest reports that Berlin and Moscow would seek now to cut the Allies from their advantageous contracts for Romanian wheat and oil, Genevieve Tabouret wrote in the Paris newspaper L'Ouvreur that this move would be only the start of Balkan campaign.

U.S. Goods To Germany

Britain Considers Measures To Stop Imports Through Vladivostok

London.—The British government is considering measures to stop imports of United States goods destined for Germany through the Soviet Pacific port of Vladivostok. Ronald Cross, minister for economic warfare, told the House of Commons.

Geoffrey Mander, Liberal, asked the minister whether, in view of the considerable increase of American exports moving through Vladivostok, the government did not intend to take measures to prevent the enemy from receiving aid in this manner."

Mr. Cross answered that all contraband control questions are under constant study, and that he would be glad to hear any suggestions that his interlocutor might present. The member said he was ready to submit possible steps to the ministry.

Mr. Cross told the house that more than 1,100,000 tons of contraband merchandise had been seized by the allied control up to March 8, about half of it by Britain.

First Canadian Contingent

Every Provision Made By British For Comfort Of Troops

London.—Somewhere in England, Canada's First Division must whip itself into fighting trim. But conditions change from one war to another and these soldiers of 1939 will train under circumstances far removed from the muddy misery of the First Canadian contingent on Salisbury Plain in 1914.

Lessons in organization have been learned from Canada's part in the First Great War. Now special emphasis has been placed on good working conditions and personal comfort of the fighting men. They get good rations, comfortable billets and serviceable warm clothing.

While the convoy crossed the Atlantic, preparations of camp for the Canadians went forward on the plain. Tents were pitched and cookhouses shelters erected. But no preparations were great enough for the comfort of the 30,000 men who arrived with their equipment and animals.

Armed Strength Of Italy

Country Has Million Trained Men And Large Reserve, It Is Said

Rome.—General Ubaldo Soddu, Italian under-secretary for war, told the Fascist chamber that Italy is ready to defend its liberty of action with 1,000,000 trained men under arms and with a fortified bulwark across the Alpine frontiers.

General Soddu outlined development of Italy's military might since the outbreak of war. The occasion of his remarks was the consideration of the war ministry's budget for the coming fiscal year.

The under-secretary for war said the million trained men, all were recruited from the younger classes and added that an ever increasing mass of reservists guarantees raising the army within the shortest time to "a level of strength which the exigencies of the situation may require."

Italy is in a "privileged" frontier position, Soddu said, confirming that Italy had fortified her frontier with Germany as well as with France.

Italian fortifications, the under-secretary continued, are not so much the official system as the Maginot and Siegfried lines but more an "integrating and strengthening of natural obstacles."

The address came amidst general expressions of Italian satisfaction that Russia and Finland signed a peace treaty.

SWEDEN MOVES FOR MEASURES TO AID PROTECTION

Helsinki.—Finnish Foreign Minister A. Tanner told the foreign press a conference would be held immediately at which Sweden, Norway and Finland will conclude a defensive alliance.

Tanner said that the war against Russia had prevented investigation of the possibilities of such a pact which will secure the boundaries and independence of these three countries.

Reuters news agency quoted a Rome radio broadcast saying the foreign ministers of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia would meet at Riga to review the international situation in the light of the Finnish-Russian peace.

In Stockholm, the Swedish foreign minister, Christian Gunther, warned that the "danger is not over" for Sweden and hinted at a possible defence alliance of the north countries as a result of Finland's peace with Russia.

Addressing a special meeting of the Swedish parliament, Gunther said the question of strengthening co-operation among the northern countries should be submitted to "an unbiased examination."

The setting of the eastern Finnish area about Salla's battlefields and the Kuusamo area, and the proposed new railway connecting Russia with the Swedish border, Gunther said, are "conditions that are of evident interest to us."

Gunther warned would-be invaders that Sweden would emulate the Finns if it ever came to a fight for national survival.

"Consideration of the Soviet-Finnish treaty of peace brings no relief to Sweden, for the danger is not past," he said.

"Considering Finland's new borders, our situation has become even more delicate. We should therefore be ready for every eventuality and we must be prepared to take Finland as our model. We can do it and we intend to do it."

He disclosed that the peace terms accepted by the Finnish delegation in Moscow were not the same as those originally transmitted to Helsinki by Sweden after Great Britain had turned down the task on the grounds the proffered terms were exorbitant.

The foreign minister emphasized that Sweden had never played any thing but an intermediary role between Finland and Russia.

"We were subjected to no pressure from any quarter whatever," he said.

"I take occasion to repeat once more that not a word was exchanged between the Swedish government and the government of the Reich."

"I may say without boasting that all that Sweden did for Finland constituted an enormous effort. We were not in a position to offer military intervention, and I ascribed to my sorrow that armed intervention would have hurled us into a world war."

"In view of the events of 1914-18, Sweden could not deliberately thrust herself into this war."

ARMED BRITISH TRAWLER SINKS GERMAN U-BOAT

London.—A U-boat recently was sunk by an armed trawler off the northeast coast of Scotland following a 17-hour running battle, mainly as a result of smart engine-room work aboard the un-named British craft, it was disclosed.

George Leonard Westender, 31-year-old chief engineer, was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal "for gallantry and devotion to duty." It was disclosed the trawler's engine shifted five inches at the engineers, working in water up to their knees, pushed the vessel's speed past its previous top mark of 15 knots to 18½ knots.

The trawler dropped depth charges when it spotted a submarine which was forced to surface. The U-boat opened fire with its deck gun. The trawler replied and the U-boat fled, trusting to its superior speed to escape.

But the courageous trawler crew was determined to get the undersea boat. The engines were pushed to the utmost and the submarine again came into gun range and was sunk.

The trawler was hit several times by the submarine's fire. Seas flooded the engine room. "The vibration was terrific and it could be seen the engine foundations were shifting," Captain Harry Westender, father of the engineer, said when the trawler docked.

"Our position was extremely dangerous and no doubt the whole crew risked their lives," said Captain Westender.

"Through the chase the vessels pounded each other with shells. Closer and closer we went until we got within fully effective distance and sent the submarine to the bottom with gunfire."

"Although in a sinking condition, the trawler remained in the vicinity for some time. We saw the U-boat until a dense oil patch was created by the wrecked U-boat. Then, battered and damaged, we reached our base and the dangerous condition was fully relieved. The crew, who found the engine had shifted five inches."

Tragic Shooting

Sir Michael O'Dwyer Is Shot And Killed By East Indian Assassin

London.—An Indian gunman shot and killed Sir Michael O'Dwyer, former lieutenant-governor of the Punjab, and wounded Lord Zetland, secretary for India, at a meeting of the East India Association in London.

Sir Louis Dane and Lord Lamington were wounded. Lord Zetland was only slightly grazed by the gunman's bullet.

An Indian named Mahomed Singh Azad was charged with murder in connection with the affair.

Dane is a former secretary of the government of India and former chairman of the East India Association. He was wounded in the chest. Lord Zetland, who also suffered arm injuries, formerly was governor of Bombay. O'Dwyer, 75, was one of the outstanding figures in the British administration in India.

The shootings occurred at the close of a conference held at Caxton hall. As the meeting ended, four shots were heard. O'Dwyer fell to the ground, bleeding profusely from a wound in the chest.

Zetland fell beside the chair from which he had presided over the meeting. A man, clapping a gun, shouted "Make way. Make way." He dashed down a crowded aisle toward the door but two men grabbed him.

"I heard a bang close to me and then there was a sharp pain in my ribs," Zetland told the press. "It knocked me out and while I was down I heard more shooting."

Hospital attendants found the bullets in Zetland's clothing.

Police threw a cordon around Caxton hall and questioned every one who attended the meeting.

Get Twelve-Year Sentence

Dublin.—John Farrell, John Lyons and Joseph McCormack were sentenced to 12 years each in prison on charges arising from the Phoenix Park magazine raid last Dec. 23. Most of the loot taken in the raid, totalling about 1,200,000 rounds of ammunition, has been recovered.

Anglo-French Conference

Paris.—Britain's colonial secretary, Malcolm MacDonald, will come to Paris soon for conferences to implement Anglo-French economic agreements in the colonial domain. It was officially announced.

HAM FOR EASTER—OF COURSE

(By Martha Logan)

Easter without a gayly decorated baked ham would be like Christmas without a brightly lighted evergreen tree. Both are traditions which have continued to grow in favor throughout all these many years of change and the growing urge for the new and novel.

Of course, the best hams of today have kept up with changing demands for greater ease of food preparation and more satisfaction in table testing. So, too, the modern ham is in step with consumer demand for informative labeling and carries a tag or insert giving cooking directions, based on extensive laboratory and kitchen tests.

No long cooking processes, no parboiling, no guesswork as to doneness need worry the modern hostess. Scientific production and quality control assure uniformly tender hams of such superior flavor as was impossible even five years ago.

Since a discussion of cooking methods is unnecessary here if a woman reads the directions that come with the ham, let's talk about garnishes for the Easter ham.

A beautiful brown glaze is made by sifting brown sugar over the uniform, diamond-scored, cooked ham. Drizzle honey or maple syrup over this or use the thick juice from canned peaches or apricots. The spicy pickle juice from peaches, watermelon rind or crabapple pickles may also be used as a savory sauce to baste the brown sugar-topping.

Easter is a time of flowers, so let's use a flower garnish. Candied orange peel may be used to form petals for a flower design on top of the ham, or cook until tender half-inch strips of thin orange peel, then roll strips into festoons and candy in syrup. This makes flowers in the likeness of double tulips to use around the ham.

Another flower-like garnish is made by paring in spiral fashion thin half-inch strips from the thick end of a carrot. Draw a strip of parsley through the spiral and a California poppy is formed.

The colored Easter egg idea may be carried out by tinting shelled, hard-cooked eggs with vegetable colors, or use balls of cooked carrots, turnips, beets, and Brussels sprouts in nests of noodles, shoestring potatoes, or parsley.

Whatever the garnish, plan something that does not require too much last-minute preparation. Remember, too, that the garnish should be good to serve and eat with the ham, because, after all, the ham is the centre of attraction for the Easter table.

"Can't allow no such thing," drawled the mountaineer. "Ither yer takes the whole gal or nothin'!"

The story is told of some military boys who were not lucky in getting a decent fit when the new battle-dress uniforms came to Calgary. One rookie felt pretty badly about the khaki they handed out to him at the stores, and felt quite conscious of the ill-fitting uniform. A day or two later he was walking along Eighth Avenue and failed to salute an officer (being new, it was from lack of knowledge). To call his attention to the youth's delinquency, the officer stopped him and said, "Do you see my uniform?" "Yes," replied the rookie, "that's something like it; but see what a helluva fit they gave me."

NEWS FROM EDMONTON

(T. B. Windsor)

Edmonton, March 18.—This is the week that tells the story, and the week that Alberta has been awaiting since the provincial election of 1935.

As the week opened, there was lots of money being offered for signatures—but mostly untaken—that Social Crediters would not win 29 seats, which would be a bare majority of the new house. There were lots of bets, at slight odds, that they would not win 18 seats.

It was reported that the Social Credit board of strategy at party headquarters, had marked an electoral map with the constituencies which Social Crediters were confident of winning. These were marked red, and there were just 12 of them. There were another 15 or 16, reportedly, which were marked in brown, as "doubtful" or "a good chance." All the rest of the constituencies were left white as having been lost.

Some of the dozen marked in red were contradictions of all popular indications, however; there was Pincher Creek—Crows' Nest, for instance, where Social Crediters' E. O. Duke was regarded as sure to be beaten by Independents. On the other hand, neither Edmonton nor Calgary was included in either category, but Independents and C.C.F. alike conceded that under proportional representation, one seat in each city could not escape going Social Credit. A Calgary seat for Aberhart himself was regarded as the nearest thing to an absolute "safe" proposition that could be figured out, and E. C. Manning was regarded as being practically a "sure thing" on the Edmonton seat.

According to that highly-secret forecast map, the very best the Social Crediters were hoping for, even if they won the seats they considered "doubtful," was half the seats in the new legislature.

And since they could not logically expect to win all of the seats which they marked "doubtful," the Social Credit bosses were conceding defeat, if the reports of that map were correct. In some quarters usually well informed, they were actually expected to win only a dozen seats or less.

The beginning of the campaign's last week saw the positions of the opposing factions definitely established. The Social Credit party handed away at the Independents, charging them with being the "tools of the money power" in spite of the fact, well known to their supporters, that the Social Crediters were woefully short of money for the campaign, depending entirely on private contributions from their constituents to pay for advertising and their radio time.

As noted, on the other hand, that there was no general appeal from Social Crediters for campaign funds, and the question arose as to how much each of the members of the last house had been "invited" to put into the party pork-barrel from the $2,000 indemnity which each member collected for seven days of sitting in the legislature last month. It was asked whether the provincial treasury had contributed to actual cash funds of the party through an agreement by which the members paid over part of that indemnity, and it was known that some of the members who had expected, but failed, to get the Social Credit party nomination again had paid into the fund.

In spite of the tremendous loss in membership of the Social Credit league and the reported shortage of funds in the league a while ago, the organization had enough money to flood the province last week with its pamphlet entitled "The Money Power's Plan for Alberta." That pamphlet quoted the Toronto weekly paper, "Saturday Night," as predicting possible property seizures in western Canada some time in the future, but the pamphlet did not reveal the fact that the passage quoted was published two years ago and was simply a contribution to the paper by a Calgary colleague of Premier Aberhart, but not the paper's own view.

The Social Credit platform pamphlet talked warily of "basic dividends," the election cry of 1935, but it wasn't so specific this time about $25 a month and didn't put much faith in that plank anyway. It was careful to express fidelity to the Dominion, but called for provincial autonomy except in international affairs and in matters which might lead to interprovincial interference. Remarkably, there was no mention whatever in the league's newest pamphlet broadcast of a provincial bank; the whole idea of a provincial bank, which was the big cry at the start of the campaign, and was the chief excuse for cutting the legislative session and rushing to the electorate, seemed to have been dropped during the last two weeks of the campaign.

SCHOOL CHOIRS BROADCAST NEW WORLD BALLADS

The Canadian Broadcasting Commission is about to enter upon a novel experiment which has as its purpose the interesting of Canadian children in ballads having to do with the history of their own country. This will take the form of a series of five broadcasts based on John Murray Gibbon's recently published book "New World Ballads". The broadcasts will take place on successive Friday-evenings beginning January 26 between the hours of 7.00 to 7.30 eastern standard time, and will be heard from eighteen stations covering the entire country.

Three of the programmes will originate in Toronto and the ballads will be illustrated by a group of girl singers picked from Toronto high schools and singing under the direction of Leslie E. Bell, Director of Music, Ontario College of Education, University of Toronto.

The balance of the programme will originate in Montreal with ballads sung by the Westhill High Singers, a group of girls from Westhill High School. This choir is under the direction of Irvin Cooper, Supervisor of Music for the Protestant Board of School Commissioners in the City of Montreal, and lecturer at McGill Conservatory of Music. An interesting feature of the experiment is that school children in Ontario have been instructed to "listen in" as part of their home work, and it is expected that in other provinces the same action may be taken. The attention of the school-children of Quebec Province is also being drawn by Dr. W. P. Percival, Director of Protestant Education to these broadcasts in the interests of school and community singing. Upper picture shows the Montreal choir, and the lower picture the Toronto choir.

Proper celebration of Easter will be greatly marred by Alberta's election campaign.

Swallows were back to Roseland on March 6th, the earliest return ever recorded.

Teacher: "Willie, which is right, there are souls in Edmonton or there is souls?" Willie: "Are souls, I guess, Mr. Aberhart."

At Stavely an Alberta election proclamation was displayed in a Social Crediters' place of business, instead of the post office or some public place.

During the closing session of the Alberta Grand Lodge, I. O. O. F., at Calgary on Friday last, new officers were elected and installed as follows: Gerald E. Clarke, Jasper, grand master; F. A. Laut, Beiseker, deputy; F. A. Laut, Beiseker, deputy; A. B. Ballentine, Calgary, grand secretary; George W. Henderson, Calgary, grand treasurer; James Cousens, Bellevue, grand warden.

Three hundred coal miners in the Mountain Park area are striking in protest against the employment of a certain new official by the company.

John D. Hunt, 80, former clerk of the executive council and for 22 years a prominent member of the Alberta civil service until he resigned in 1935, died in Edmonton on Saturday last.

Aberhart's name was not on the Calgary voters' list. In order to vote, he and Mrs. Aberhart would have had to go to Edmonton.

As a Pincher Creek woman undertook to sing the hymn "There shall be showers of blessing" on Saturday afternoon last, the showers came, and no feeling!

Among the local ladies attending the women's Independent rally at Pincher Creek on Saturday afternoon were Mrs. L. L. Morgan, Mrs. C. W. Fleming, Mrs. S. J. Lamey, Mrs. G. Gibeau, Mrs. J. V. McDougall, Mrs. C. J. Tompkins, Mrs. J. Gillis and Miss M. Donkin.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith, of Beaver Mines, spent several days with friends in Blairmore during the week.

General municipal taxes in Ontario for the year 1939 showed a reduction of $1,870,000 from the previous year.

The funeral of the late Neil McDowell took place at Pincher Creek on Saturday afternoon, and despite the inclemency of the weather and bad country roads was largely attended. Funeral service was held in the United church.

Drumheller is to have a new $100,000 hotel, replacing the Alexander, recently destroyed by fire. Work of construction will go ahead immediately. The new building will be air conditioned.

Among the passengers on the wrecked No. 4 near Medicine Hat last week was Mrs. W. Collins, of Medicine Hat, who was returning home after being a patient in the Holy Cross hospital at Calgary for some time. She suffered injuries and shock.

A VICTORIA JANUARY IDYLL

Vancouver Island's reputation as Canada's Evergreen Playground is upheld by this idyllic scene photographed January 6th at Victoria, B.C. The lamb is a real one, only six days old. It was born January 1st on the farm of E. J. T. Woodward, near Victoria. The pretty little lady is Sally, two-and-a-half-year-old daughter and only child of Commander R. A. ("Tommy") Wright, R.C.N., and Mrs. Wright, Esquimalt. The flowers were picked in the gardens of the Empress Hotel. Canadians and Americans are visiting Victoria in large numbers this winter, the ideal weather permitting them to enjoy winter golf, tennis, fishing, riding and hiking under splendid conditions.

ENOCH WILLIAMS APPEALS TO MINERS FOR SUPPORT

Says Labor Should Have Direct Representation in Legislature, Instead of a School Teacher or Minister.

The local political spotlight was focused on the Labor party on Sunday night when Enoch Williams, candidate in the provincial elections, supported by Tom Uphill, M.L.A. in the B.C. Legislature for Fernie, and Bob Livett, president of District 18, U. M. W. A., addressed a meeting in the community hall. Forty persons were present. Mr. Stigler was chairman.

Chairman Stigler in his remarks stated that in a constituency so highly industrialized as this one could not be adequately represented by a school teacher or a minister who certainly did not know the needs and problems of the miners.

Robert Livett gave a stirring address on behalf of Mr. Williams. The candidate, he stated, had practical experience in the mines and knew the intricacies and troubles of the miners. Labor must have a representative in the legislature to voice the problems of Labor. He quoted a report in The Journal which credited E. O. Duke, in a recent Commons meeting, as stating he had done much for Labor. He only wished Mr. Duke had been present to answer a few questions. Mr. Williams, being mayor of Blairmore, was also a business man and well able to represent labor and business in this constituency. He refuted the statement made by E. Rees that Williams did not represent Labor. Mr. Williams had been nominated at a Labor convention.

Tom Uphill started his speech by stating that had one been given the opportunity of visiting the "gas factory" at Edmonton they would doubtless vote for their own class. Coal miners the world over had been in the forefront of progressive legislation. He was disappointed at the small crowd present. It should not be necessary to prevail upon the miners to vote for one of their own class. The Labor slogan should be "Vote for Enoch Williams is a vote for yourself."

A member of the legislature had more influence than delegations, and for that reason Labor should send a representative to Edmonton. A miner can understand compensation claims better than the opponents who now oppose Williams.

Canada was the best country in the world, the existing unemployment problem being the result of our own ignorance.

Failure of proper distribution was the cause of apples being dumped by the roadside, cotton being ploughed underground, and fish catches being thrown back into the sea, while thousands of people hungered for them.

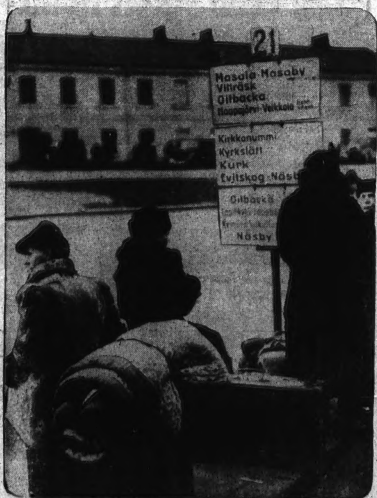

He listed the qualifications of Mr. Williams and closed his address with a plea to vote 1 for Williams.

Mr. Williams gave a resume of his activities about 1905, when he had worked at International mine. During the past fifteen years, Labor unions had awakened to the fact that they must have representation in the government to present the problems of the workers.

The mine worker does not earn enough to insure his family against the loss of the breadwinner, and compensation is the only safeguard he has against loss of income through injury or death. Their greatest fight was against the chiselling of rates. He scored the administration of the Compensation Board, from whose decision there was no appeal. In medical fees $265,000 was paid out last year. E. O. Duke, local representative at that time, was member of the committee to revise the Compensation Act, and that committee had received congratulations from the Alberta Branch of the Manufacturers Association on their work. He scored the revision of the Mines Act, which forced workers to undergo a physical examination to receive a medical certificate. Also the B class certificates. He lashed out at E. O. Duke, who had listed the Hours of Labor Act, Minimum Wage Act, Approval of Trade Unions, etc., as accomplishments of the Social Credit government. Every province in Canada already had them. They were only a bubble. He hit back at E. Rees, who had stated on several occasions that Williams did not represent Labor. If it was all right for him to represent Labor on delegations, at his work as secretary of Blairmore union and also as mayor of Blairmore, was it not right for him to represent Labor at Edmonton? —Coleman Journal.

War Levels Heroic Finlanders

Little Finland realized when the Red menace crossed her borders that hers was a fight for life. Large cities were evacuated and all preparations made to fight to the very last. Rich and poor took their turn getting out of threatened civilian centres. Here are women with bedding rolled up—their men are all at the front—waiting in line in Helsinki. These were among the last to leave. Today the world recognizes the true meaning of Finland's resistance. From North and South America, from all of Scandinavia, and most of the other countries of Europe contributions of money, arms, clothing, medical supplies, mobile hospitals and determined fighting men are heading towards this little brightly burning light of civilization to help the Finns in their need.

CORRESPONDENCE

Bellevue, March 20, 1940.

To The Editor:

Dear Sir—In a few days qualified persons will be casting a vote for some candidate of their own choice. Speech-making and intensive campaigning is now on the wane, and the issue will narrow down to leave the voter alone with the all-important question, "for whom and for what do we vote?" I am thinking of the federal election, upon which chief interest is focused.

In a coal mining area, our problems differ vastly from the average district. Our very existence depends upon the state of the industry. Poverty or plenty, for thousands of families, is bound up with the size of the coal orders that come to the Crow's Nest Pass each year.

Since the outbreak of war, living conditions have vastly improved, particularly among the miners in the eastern section of the district, after a serious depression of ten or eleven years. This upturn in business has transformed the standard of living from a meagre existence to something approaching a more decent level for a Canadian worker, in addition to absorbing the surplus unemployed youths of the community.

The increase in business is attributed to the war in Europe, increased demands for coal by the railways, the reported elimination of American coal from the Manitoba markets, and the favorable exchange rates. However, anyone who has studied the coal situation knows that the industry still lacks that state of permanency that is essential to a thriving enterprise. Until a national fuel policy is established in Canada, which will give some assurance of wider marketing concessions, the volume of output for western mines will be forced to fluctuate between prosperity and liquidation for Alberta miners.

What has all this to do with the federal election? Simply this: with the precarious position of the industry, there is greater need today than ever for strong representation from this area in the government at Ottawa. Since there is no Labor candidate in the field, it is essential that some representative should be elected from this area who would have the confidence and goodwill of the government.

Assuming the Liberal government is returned, Mr. McKenna would be a position, if elected, to be the contact man for the Western field in a way no other candidate could be. Even though their interest may be keen in this problem, their influence is greatly restricted, since the Liberal government has been their main target of condemnation and castigation.

My suggestion may not be appreciated by some, but this problem has always been of interest to me, and it is purely for the good of the worker that I have written this letter. It is far better to say these things now than after the election.

One of the easiest things is to theorize, and speculate with unfixed, unproven and far away utopian adventures, and neglect grave problems in our midst. I am sure the misery of the last eleven years will not easily be forgotten by many residents of The Pass. Make no mistake, we are bound to have a recurrence unless we find a remedy for our problems.

I hope every miner will give this matter careful consideration. You have voted in the past for every brand of political species; why not be mercenary this time and vote for your own dinner pail?

RICHARD UPTON,
The Manse, Bellevue.

Vote . . .

McKENNA

... Liberal

On March 26

F. O. McKenna

Shall I Vote for KING or MANION?

There is only one decision to be made by the Canadian people on March 26th . . . It is this:

Shall our country's war effort be handed over to unknown, unnamed politicians . . . to a makeshift cabinet with Dr. Manion as the self-appointed leader? Or . . .

Shall our country's war effort be continued vigorously and faithfully by the known and proven administration of Mackenzie King?

That is the question YOU must answer.

Up a Blind Alley?—or—Out in the Open!

It is time for plain speaking. Dr. Manion's pretence of offering "national" government is sheer political deceit. Because: even if he were elected to office, Dr. Manion could not organize or lead a truly national government. The parliamentary group which might follow him would fail to represent all Canada. It would not represent the people of the national Liberal party. It would not represent the people of the C.C.F. party. It would not represent the people of the historic Conservative party which Dr. Manion has now scuttled.

Do not be deceived!
Dr. Manion cannot give you National Government.

The best he might give you would be government by unknown followers. He invites you to follow him up a blind alley—to vote for a government of his own imagination—unanswerable to some undisclosed political group.

Mackenzie King offers you something entirely in the open . . . the most truly National government Canada has ever known. His parliamentary followers represent the people of every province in Canada—every section of our country—every economic, social and racial group. There is not an area of this country—not a single classification of our people—without proper representation in the Mackenzie King following.

Mackenzie King's cabinet ministers are well known to you. They are broadly experienced men, eager and able to continue the sort of administration which brought progress to Canada in times of peace and national pride to Canadians since the outbreak of war.

The Mackenzie King administration is answerable to the people of Canada—to no one else.

The Responsibility is Now Yours

Canada is facing the greatest crisis in her history. It is YOUR responsibility to say how she is to deal with this crisis. Therefore: when you go to the polls on March 26th you should consider only what is best for Canada—what is best for the Empire and our allies—what is the sure, direct road to Victory and Peace.

On almost every woodpile you find a crooked stick. It will not lie straight, stand straight nor sit straight. It does nothing but make trouble. It gets in people's road, harks their shins and trips them up. In every group of human beings you find some like that. They are against everything and everybody. They sow dissension. They like to say things that make people unhappy. They think it is a disgrace to be contented and satisfied. Whatever the majority is for, they are against. Are you a crooked stick? If so, straighten out!

Display Of Alberta Products

This picture shows a large display case, which stands in the lobby of the Legislative Buildings in Edmonton, and which is being used for the display of Alberta-made goods and products. Above the case are five transparent, illuminated views in color of scenes characteristic of Alberta. The display in the case shows blankets, tapestry, rugs and a shopping bag handwoven from spun, dyed native wool, or worked in cotton. These articles have come from Hairy Hill, Vegreville, Boian and Kahwin. The vari-colored pottery breakfast and luncheon sets, vases, casseroles, etc., on display shelves are the products of the Medicine Hat Potteries.

Two or three local parties enjoyed some excellent fishing in a small stream in the Porcupine Hills the early part of the week. Some were "canned" on the spot, others were eaten, while still others were brought home to be shared among the neighbors. Too bad that dreams don't always come true!

Sergeant A. J. Barker, 51-year-old Royal Canadian Mounted Policeman, was killed Saturday night, victim of a mysterious shooting in a Shaumavon, Sask. hotel. Victor Richard Greenleaf, a 30-year-old rancher, is charged with the murder. Coroner's jury found that Barker had been shot by bullets from Greenleaf's gun.

Never in the history of this district has such whole-hearted interest been manifested in an election than was witnessed at Pincher Creek Saturday afternoon last, when upwards of one hundred women of the town and near by assembled in the I.O.O.F. hall to greet and hear the Independent candidate, Mr. C. J. Tompkins. Tea was served, following which the chair was taken by Mrs. F. T. Edwards, of Pincher Creek, who very ably introduced the speakers, Mr. R. O. Allison and Mr. Tompkins, as well as a large number of the ladies to visitors from outside points. At the close of the meeting a resolution was passed to the effect that the Women's Independent Auxiliary be continued as a permanent non-partisan organization.

The Pincher Creek Creamery has been purchased from Burns & Co. by Messrs. J. A. Sandgren and G. Peterson.

One lady, asked who accompanied her to Pincher Creek on Saturday afternoon, replied: "Oh, a bunch of pollywogs and stoolpigeons!" It'll be a rub on little Aberhart for some time to come.

Some folks during the past week were asking us why we did not give a boost to a certain political faction—meaning a $20 space. Would like the same parties to go to a store and ask for a gift of goods from the shelf to that value. There are many lessons to be learned in this life, and one is that column space is practically all a newspaper has to sell, and it should be worth cash—we can't live on credit.

An overseas service, by means of which gifts of food, candies, cigarettes, tobacco, toilet articles and other "extras from home" can be sent to Canadians or active service in any part of the world, has been established by The Canadian Legion War Services. C.B.C.-P. ELECTION
NEWS SERVICE

By arrangement with the Canadian Press, the C.B.C. will provide three-minute election bulletins at quarter and half-hour intervals on March 26, beginning at 3:30 p.m. M.S.T., one half hour after the polls close in the Maritime Provinces, and continuing to 11 p.m., if necessary. The last polls close in British Columbia at 7 p.m. M.S.T., and an hour after this final closing, a ten-minute election summary will be broadcast over the national network.

The election bulletins in English will be supplemented by parallel bulletins on the French network, and the regional and national news summaries provided by the Canadian Press will be broadcast as usual.

Restrictions on the publication of election results established in 1935 will be applied for the first time in this election. No results will be broadcast in any province until that province's polls are closed.

MUST DIM LIGHTS
IN SASKATCHEWAN

New legislation governing the dimming of headlights in Saskatchewan requires all motorists with lights of 23 candlepower or more to dim their headlights or spotlights when within 1500 feet of an approaching vehicle.

According to the interpretation placed upon the section by government officials, this exempts the drivers of old model cars which are not equipped with dimming devices, because such cars did not have headlights of 23 candlepower or more.

NEW PROVINCIAL PARK

Beauvais Lake, some 7 miles west of Pincher Creek in the Municipal District of Castle River No. 40, has been set aside as a provincial park, thus preserving the rights of the public for all time to use this Southern Alberta lake as a resort. The park comprises the northwest shore. It is a well known beauty spot and picnic ground. A number of private cottages have been there for a number of years.

EATON'S CAN FIT YOU!

In every branch of endeavor, standards which set as examples or models are necessary. In the clothing field, EATON'S has long been a pioneer in developing standard size measurement charts. Realizing that boys of the same age are often different in size, our Research Bureau took the measurements of hundreds of boys and developed a standard size chart.

So, too, all the men's and women's garments we sell measure up to our own standard size charts based on the average figures of thousands of our customers. With the changing years the average figure in the West tends to change and part of our work is constantly to bring our charts in line with the changes.

This endless watchfulness, this emphasis on standards is a part of the satisfaction that customers get in the fit of their clothes when they order from EATON'S.

Newfoundland seal hunters report good catches, already totaling near the 100,000 mark. One ship, the Imogene, hails for practically a load, 22,000.

"Elect the Independents and our bonds will be of value to every owner, and the toy banks will be a thing of the past," declared Gordon Walker, Independent candidate for Macleod.

Remember the grand Easter Frolic to be held in the Sartoris hall after midnight on Sunday; also the Columbus Club annual Easter dance in the Columbus hall on Monday night. Both are major attractions.

Rev. Allen R. Hubbard, B.A., of Chalmers United church, Woodstock, Ontario, has received a call to the pastorate of Knox United church, Calgary. Dr. W. G. Wilson will remain as colleague for another year.

On his semi-annual visit here over the week end, Tom Uphill, Fernie member of the British Columbia legislature, was endorsed by three sons. And they're all of that same most-desirable fighting type—for what is right.

When announcement was made that J. H. Blackmore was to address a meeting in Lethbridge, following other speakers, there was a general movement from the hall, and the chairman called for the singing of the National Anthem.

One page of a recent issue of a Nova Scotia paper contained reference to no less than 98 "Macs." They included MacKays, MacDonalds, MacPhersons, MacIntoshs, MacLaughlins, MacQuarries, MacGregors, MacLeods, MacLellans, MacMillans, MacPays and MacPereinsins.

S. C. Heckbert, Independent candidate, told a Mannville audience that Premier Aberhart took away the votes of Alberta's soldiers overseas because he knew they had gone over there to fight a dictator and certainly would not vote to sustain a dictator in Alberta.

The marriage of Miss Wilma, daughter of Editor and Mrs. H. T. Halliwell, of Coleman, to Mr. Alwyn G. Haydon, will take place at St. Alban's church, Coleman, on Monday next. In honor of Miss Halliwell, Mrs. W. L. Rippon was hostess at her home on Friday evening last at a kitchen shower and bridge party, when the guest of honor was recipient of some very fine kitchenware.

"It's your God-given right to suffer some more,"—Aberhart.

Give Aberhart a chance and he'll have another $50,000 to pull out with.
